The sawdust scattered about the fair grounds has developed into a veritable Klondyke for "eagle-eyed" youth of the city and already a plan to screen it and recover money dropped by excited visitors is under way. Scores of nickels, dimes, quarters, and even half dollar pieces have been found by sharp-eyed youngsters who have banded together to search the dust early in the morning and make a "clean-up."

Col. Dan Morgan Smith To Lecture

Torrance people will have a rare opportunity Tuesday evening, Aug. 9 to hear a big man in a great address when Col. Dan Morgan Smith will speak at the Legion Hall at 7:45.
The Colonel will be remembered by all Herald readers as the commander in charge of the Battalion of Death, the First Battalion, 358 Infantry, 90th Division A.E.F.
This was one of the most famous fighting divisions of the world war, and most people remember reading in the daily papers and magazines at the time the account of the great fight the Battalion of Death put up during the St. Mihiel drive at Faye-en-Haye.
When Smith led his battalion beyond the lines it was surrounded by Germans. The men fought for three days and were reduced in number from 1220 to 325 before other elements came up to their assistance. They kept up such a fight that the Germans thought an entire regiment was there. The major gave orders to his men not to permit the Germans to get close enough to discover their number unless they were prisoners. One bunch of twenty-seven Germans were captured. After surrendering and seeing the small numbers of the Americans they threw grenades, hoping to escape. None did.
The major lost four adjutants in one day showing how hot the spot was in which he found himself. He killed four men himself, which is some record for a fighting major.
Says Col. Smith regarding his address:
In this address I shall tell of the war as I saw it in the St. Mihiel Drive; going over the top at Faye-en-Haye; the advance on Vilecy; the taking of Hill 360.4; Les Quatre Chemis (where my battalion was surrounded by Germans and cut off from the regiment, and where we held off three regiments of the enemy.) (This is where the battalion won the name of the Battalion of Death); of the fighting at Les Huit Chemis, Vieville, and the Argonne Forest.
I shall try to make my audience see life as it was in the trenches—on the march, on the advance and on the battlefield. I shall tell them of fighting in the woods, hand-to-hand conflicts, and of the brave things the officers and men of my command did. In brief, I shall try to take them with me over all those wonderful, horrible, never to be forgotten victorious days.
The lecture is free. It is given under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League. It should be heard by every true American.

REEVES' QUICK-LITE LAMP
Ever on the lookout for articles of merit that would appeal to the needs of his customers, "Hardware" Reeve today installed in a booth opposite the three occupied by his establishment at the fair a display of the Colman Quick-Lite lamp.
This lamp, which comes in various styles and sizes gives a brilliant light from gasoline of 200-candle power and is safe because the fuel cannot spill. The claims for the lamp include no wick, no chimney, no smoke, no soot and no odor—just light. The lamp is also made in the shape and for the purpose of a lantern and would apparently be invaluable for the farmer.

TWO VITAL NEEDS.
There are two very important things that go toward making a good, live town—one is persistent, thorough and attractive advertising and the other is backing up the advertising with performance. There is no use advertising if you don't have the goods, and there is no use having the goods if you don't advertise them. No town has ever benefited by the man who sits down and waits for more enterprising and public-spirited persons to bring trade to him, and neither is it by the man who fails to deliver the goods when called upon. Both help to make a cow pasture of a town. When the business houses of a community know how to advertise and how to follow up the advertising by giving good service, the community is sure to grow, and that helps all the people, for a part of every dollar stays in town. A part of every dollar spent in a town goes to taxes, churches, charities, street and sidewalk improvement. Isn't that argument enough to convince you the dollar ought to stay here?

Big New Features Adds To Colossus

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Show European Novels
Made even more tremendous than in 1921 by the recent addition of many more trained wild animals displays and the purchase of Europe's biggest show, Ringling Brothers & Barnum & Bailey combined will exhibit at Los Angeles, September 11, 12, 13, 14.
All who glance over the cable news or who read the magazines must have noted the many contracts entered into by the Ringling Brothers for foreign talent last winter. A special ship was chartered this spring to bring the hundreds of human performers, trained animal acts and equine displays to America. More than a million persons saw the mammoth new circus of 1922 during the weeks that it exhibited in Madison Square Garden, New York. Now this marvelous exhibition is touring the country abroad five great railroad trains. It is a third bigger than the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey show of last season. It is ten times larger than any other circus now on tour.
Big as is this wonder circus of 1922—with its more than twenty trained wild-animal displays in steel arenas, fully 150 wonderfully schooled trick horses, 700 men and women performers, 100 clowns and scores of features—the price of admission is no more than before. And the trained animal numbers and the immense horse show were circuses in themselves while touring Europe they are not offered as separate attractions by the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined shows. Instead all are on one gigantic program. Everything is in one mammoth main tent. One ticket admits to all and includes admission to the tremendous double menagerie. There are more than a thousand animals in the zoo of the circus and these include a tiny baby hippopotamus only recently born and accompanied by its three-ton mother. Another remarkable zoological feature is an armored rhinoceros, the only one known to exist and for which the Ringlings recently refused an offer of $30,000.00.
